as we see it

Radio Station WPEN, which is in Philadelphia, recently banned the playing of any Gordon MacRae records on its programs. It seems the assistant manager of the station was sitting at home one night and saw the Comedy Hour. During the show, MacRae asked Dorothy Kirsten to sing a duet with him—as they did in the old days of radio.

"You remember radio, don't you?" MacRae quipped.

That made the assistant manager of WPEN very unhappy. "If these artists think so little of radio, I see no reason why we should lend our facilities to promote and publicize them via their recordings," he said. And then he ordered his disc jockeys to cease and desist from spinning MacRae records.

Well, now, if the radio station is paying the assistant manager to eat and clothe himself and provide for his family, and he is therefore grateful to radio to the extent of being touchy about jokes at radio's expense —why was the assistant manager watching television? Why wasn't he sitting with his ear glued to his radio set, demonstrating, at least for his family's edification, that he loves radio above all other media of entertainment, even that upstart television?

What was the manager of WPEN doing that Sunday night while his assistant was casting an eye at a TV set? (A set paid for, no doubt, from radio station earnings.) Was the manager, perchance, tuned to Toast of the Town and therefore in no position to hear and take umbrage at the crack?

Of course, everyone remembers radio. It's the medium that popularized comics like Bob Hope and Red Skelton who made cracks about the movies. Can't recall that they were ever banned from films because of their wisecracks, though.

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

It's not often that one TV comic likes another one. But JACK BENNY and GEORGE BURNS like JACKIE GLEASON's talents so much that they want to star him in a feature-length movie which they'll produce and wholly finance. BENNY talked over the deal with GLEASON during his recent New York trip when he guested on JACKIE's show. The movie will probably be filmed next summer.

GRACE KELLY will do her first TV show since she became a Hollywood star when she appears in F. SCOTT FITZGERALD's "Rich Boy," on an upcoming Producers' Showcase "spectacular." Producer FRED COE hopes to sign MONTGOMERY CLIFT as her co-star. MISS KELLY starred when the play was presented several seasons ago on TV Playhouse -- also produced by COE.

BIL and CORA BAIRD make their first TV appearance since exiting JACK PAAR's Morning Show, when they guest on "Babes in Toyland," Dec. 18, for a MAX LIEBMAN spectacular. ROBERTA PETERS also signed for that show . . . And LIEBMAN's Jan. 2 spectacular again will co-star the big three -- JUDY HOLLIDAY, STEVE ALLEN and DICK SHAWN.

BILL MAULDIN, who created the "Willie and Joe" cartoon characters, signed to star in an upcoming telefilm series based on his famous GIs. No word yet on who will play the other character . . . CBS scheduled a special one-hour show Jan. 9 titled Meet the Senators, in which viewers will get a chance to meet all the new senators recently elected.

NBC trying to talk FRED ALLEN into doing a humorous news analysis five evenings a week, in addition to a series based on his recent "Allen's Sketchbook" . . . The new Bob Cummings Show, a telefilm series in which the star plays a news photographer, replaces The Hunter Sunday nights on NBC starting in January.

It's definite now for Kukla, Fran and Ollie to star in a special, hour-long Christmas show on ABC Christmas Day . . . And the annual Longines "Christmas Festival" will be staged the same day on CBS . . . ABC planning to move Soldier Parade from its present Sunday night period so that ARLENE FRANCIS won't have that mad dash each week from Parade to the What's My Line studio.

ABC has abandoned its original plans to televise other NCAA sports events, such as track and swimming meets, after the football season. No reason given . . . CBS, meanwhile, launches a 13-week series of Saturday afternoon Big 10 basketball games this week. There will be no games played on Christmas and New Year's Day, though.

It's A Gold Rush

That's Why Film Stars Have Stampeded To TV

By Ronald Reagan

Former president of Screen Actors Guild, now host on TV film series.

Two years ago it was news when a name actor decided to move into television, if only as a one-time guest on someone else's show. Today it is news when the actor who hasn't appeared on TV can be found. What has happened to change the once despised stepchild of show business into a respected member of the family?

Reagan brings Barry Fitzgerald to TV.

To begin with—and contrary not only to predictions but to premature statements of "fact"—television has been the salvation of the motion picture industry, not its ruination. The overwhelming competition, which was supposed to have sounded the death knell of the movies, has actually improved the picture playing at your neighborhood theater. TV, by offering something new and different, has forced the motion picture people out of their monopolistic complacency and back to the creative work that made the industry great in the first place.

Television itself, over the past two years, has settled down to a recognizable pattern. It has acquired stability. It knows the direction in which it is traveling, if not the ultimate goal. Stars who once felt, rightly or wrongly, that TV was beneath their dignity, now admit it has attained a respectable level.

◀ Familiar faces in 'Face Is Familiar': Jack Benny, Benny Rubin in top budget film.

Money, too, has been an important factor. TV today is not only willing but financially able to pay the kind of money the bigger name stars demand. GE Theater, the CBS show with which I am so delighted to be associated, budgeted one of its recent films, "The Face Is Familiar," at no less than $70,000. That's an almost unheard-of figure, even today. Two years ago, a reasonably good half-hour TV film could be made for $18,000 or $20,000. Many of today's top-rated shows cost in the neighborhood of $30,000-$35,000.

"The Face Is Familiar" starred Jack Benny, who does not—and most certainly should not—work for peanuts. Its cast included such familiar names as Otto Kruger and Benny Rubin. Its sets were both large and expensive. It was the kind of show which is convincing the few remaining Hollywood hold-outs that TV is not all panel shows and wrestling.

Quite aside from money, however, TV offers actors a far wider field of action than the movies ever did. The star who is typed in pictures can find roles in TV which no picture producer would dare give him. Hollywood has an unfortunate habit of putting as many stars as possible into airtight containers labeled "Type;" and pity the poor actor who tries to struggle out. I was afraid that I would be typed as Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy. I figured you could be Jack Armstrong just so long, and then you might get awfully unemployed. But it has taken TV to give me my first villain's role, that of an informer in the Irish rebellion of 1922, in "The Martyr."

(Ironically, the few actors who have broken their "type" chains have been more successful in their new roles than they ever were in the old. Look, for example, at Dick Powell.)

TV, too, has rapidly become an important proving ground for young talent, which in the past had to be satisfied with the B picture routine—presold merchandise into which no one ever put any kind of creative effort at all. Today's youngsters have a wealth of strictly Grade A video shows on which to cut their trouping teeth.

Television is not, of course, without its pitfalls for the actor. Right off the bat there is the danger of overexposure, of being seen so often in a short time that one's career is cut off almost before it gets started.

Then,too, there is the sponsor, a factor never before encountered by most film actors. The star who casually endorses X cigarets may suddenly find himself done out of a chance to star, for much bigger money, in a show being sponsored by Y cigarets. Or he may find himself associated with a product offensive to fans.

Another factor, however, has played a major role in swinging star names into TV—and that's film. TV's future will be based almost entirely on film, so far as I'm concerned. It has already created a vast reservoir of work for Hollywood's craftsmen, from writers and actors to electricians and stagehands. And it has afforded the artist the protection he needs, giving him a chance to polish his work.

The star who "accepts the exciting challenge" of doing a live dramatic show overlooks, in my mind, one very important factor. The challenge may be exciting to him, overriding the few fluffs he may make, but the viewing public couldn't care less. The viewer hasn't the faintest interest in watching the actor accept a challenge. He wants only to be entertained, and he just naturally expects that the actor is professionally up to the job. Film goes a long way toward guaranteeing it for him.

There is one thing about TV that I had to learn the hard way. In the old days, an actor who wanted to see the new Broadway shows had his agent arrange radio guest appearances that paid expenses and took little time.

I tried this with three TV shots —two half-hour dramatic shows and a vignette on the old Ken Murray show. I spent my entire New York trip in rehearsals, never saw a single Broadway show and returned to Hollywood dead tired and very much wiser.

TV is fun. It's rewarding. But it's tough.

◀ Joan Weber: one song—and fame.

TV Plays Her Song—

SELLS 500,000 RECORDS IN 5 DAYS

On Monday evening, Nov. 15, Studio One presented a whodunit named "Let Me Go, Lover."

While the show was still on the air, the CBS switchboard was jammed with inquiries. Not about the melodramatic goings-on in the rather run-of-the-mill script, but about a song and the girl who sang it.

The song, sharing the same title as the show, was on a Columbia record which had been cannily distributed to record shops and disc jockeys several weeks earlier. Cannily, because within hours of its "official" premiere on Studio One buyers were grabbing every copy in sight.

By Friday of the same week some 500,000 discs had been sold. Distributors were sending their own trucks to Columbia's Bridgeport factory to pick up additional copies. Columbia Records executive Mitch Miller tugged his beard and predicted 3,000,000 sales. Patti Page, Peggy Lee and other top artists were arranging to record their own versions.

However, it was an "unknown"—19-year-old Joan Weber—whose name promised to be linked automatically with the tune.

The choice of the song is attributed to Miller; the choice of the singer, indirectly to Studio One's press agent, Murray Martin.

The song, originally tagged "Let Me Go, Devil," was written three years ago by Jennie Lou Carson. Miller felt it had little chance, because of its lyrics. The song was recorded and forgotten.

Then, in one and the same week, Miller started scouting for a song for a Studio One script about a disc jockey; met Miss Weber, and received revised lyrics for the retitled "Let Me Go, Lover."

The original plan was to have a "name" singer record the song. Martin insisted it would be more effective to "use an unknown girl—and keep her faceless."

Miller agreed, decided the song needed someone who could "project intense emotion without sounding like a fool." Miss Weber filled the bill.

Literally overnight—thanks to her unprecedented TV help—Miss Weber, who is the wife of George Verfaille, an electrician in Paulsboro, N.J. (population 3600), found herself famous.

TV Stations Are Ready For Any Occasion

Two weeks from now, many a television station will be wishing you a Merry Christmas via a 21-inch greeting card (maybe larger, maybe smaller, depending on the size of your TV screen.) Some stations extend other greetings, too—Happy New Year, Happy St. Valentine's Day, even Happy Daylight Saving Day.

This is an especially friendly use of Visual Station Identifications, or VSIs, the decorated slides which tell viewers what channel they're watching.

Valentine's Day is marked by WGBI-TV, Scranton, Pa., with heart, arrow, filigree.

'Dog Opera' Heroine

JAN CLAYTON'S CAREER INCLUDES HORSES, MUSICALS AND LASSIE

People with long memories—well, back to 1945, anyhow—remember Jan Clayton suffering and singing nobly in a Broadway hit musical called "Carousel." They may even recall her earlier warblings in a number of Hollywood musicals like "Meet the People" and "Music in the Air."

Now comes television with a Jan Clayton in a CBS series called Lassie. This Jan Clayton plays mistress to an upstaging collie and mother to a small boy in a "dog opera;" and, while she suffers nobly, she sings nary a note.

The situation may have created the impression that there are two Jan Claytons. But 't ain't so.

Jan, the wife of a prosperous Beverly Hills attorney, has emerged from a nine-year pause in a career that began with beauty contest laurels and leading lady chores opposite Bill "Hopalong Cassidy" Boyd and his horse, Topper. She convinced her husband she should undertake her present role by pretending little interest in it—always a good way to get what you want. And she wanted Lassie—badly, because "it was something I wanted my own children to see."

Jan has such a firm grasp on the character of Tommy Rettig's mother that she sometimes does battle with script writer, producer and director on the super-sweet way she is supposed to deal with her on-screen offspring. "I have three girls and a boy," she says meaningfully. "Sometimes a mother has to put her foot down."

Chicago Dateline

Channel Chatter: This Monday the new guest star policy on In Town Tonight goes into high gear, as stellar vocalist Connee Boswell begins a two-night stand. Next week the visiting star for three days will be boy prodigy Jimmy Boyd. And on Dec. 30 the headliner to appear and perform will be "Cumpari" crooner Julius La Rosa.

WGN-TV engineers may have trouble with Adrienne Falcon, if they ever transmit Play Marko in color. Adrienne, the program's "Miss Marko," has one green and one brown eye.

Falcon

Hurlbut

Months back, Jim Hurlbut was given a pair of rare turtles by Zoo Parade cohort Marlin Perkins. Named Tee and Vee, the turtles later escaped from Jim's Glen Ellyn home. Two weeks ago, however, one of them (whom Jim recognized by markings as Tee) returned to his doorstep. Apparently found the long trek out of the front yard exhausting.

Teen enthusiasts of Bandstand Matinee will probably be flocking to the Holiday Club ballroom these weekends. Bandstand emcee Jim Lounsbury is appearing there each Sunday afternoon as host for dances staged exclusively for teeners.

Four annual football classics are scheduled for TV coverage on New Year's Day. NBC will telecast from the Rose Bowl (Ohio State vs. University of Southern California) and the Cotton Bowl (Arkansas vs. Georgia Tech); CBS, the Orange Bowl (Nebraska vs. Duke); ABC, the Sugar Bowl (Navy vs. Mississippi). TV GUIDE will carry names and numbers of all bowl game players in its Jan. 1 issue.

Tempers are still ruffled over film star Debra Paget's recent guest appearance on the Comedy Hour. By ad agency order, Debra's dance and costume were made less risque at the last moment. Debra threatened to walk out, but the agency was adamant. Said it wanted no repetition of the furor caused by a Sheree North tassle dance many months ago.

STEVE, TOM AND HOWARD ARE IN A THREE —

To televiewers in Chicago, Friday night, when some of the livelier TV boxing matches are presented, is traditionally "fight night." Of late, it's a term that's taken on a new meaning in the Windy City. This season, on three of Chicago's four TV outlets, a trio of popular TV personalities is slugging it out Friday evenings at 11 P.M. They're battling for audience supremacy.

The three, as every stay-up-late video enthusiast is aware, are: Steve Allen, whose Tonight is NBC-TV's entry into the late evening variety field; Howard Miller, the glib host of one of Chicago TV's most successful platter-and-chatter shows; Tom Duggan, whose choleric criticisms of nearly everything delight a hefty number of fans.

Each of the three has something worthwhile to offer viewers. Allen's show, seen on WNBQ, probably boasts the most variety. A typical Tonight stanza is sparked by songs, comedy, audience participation and skits.

To meet this challenge the rival Howard Miller Show on WBBM-TV lays more stress on musical appeal, offering a bonanza of tunes on records. In addition, there are interviews with guest celebrities who are generally headliners in the recording field.

Contrary-wise, WBKB's entry, The Tom Duggan Show is devoid of music. Wisely sensing that his fans like Duggan in large doses, the producers have built the show entirely around Tom. While there are chats with sports and show business notables, most of the show is devoted to letting Tom editorialize, crusade and rant as he pleases.

It's a real Friday night free-for-all that has the ad agency boys asking who's going to lick whom?

On paper Allen looms strongest. Backed by a fat budget, he can muster the biggest names for his nightly extravaganzas. He's also supported by a fine staff of musicians, singers and production men. More important, Steve in his own right is nimbly talented, especially on the piano.

Howard Miller, nonetheless, is providing Allen with stiff competition. Easy-going and adept at ad-libbing, Howard walked off with all local popularity laurels last year. His show finds special favor with teen-agers.

Duggan, too, has his rabid following. His loudly vocal disciples view Tom as the personification of wit and wisdom, an opinion he seems to share. They're steadfastly loyal, even to the point of dutifully buying what Tom tells them. At least, he has a surprising number of sponsors.

Allen, Miller and Duggan are all three going strong. The same can't be said for poor Ron Terry, one of the many local stars who has recently tackled a similar late-late evening venture. Before Ron was given a fair chance, he was given the heave-ho by his sponsor. Although the show, Step Lightly, seemed highly promising, it was dropped after only five weeks on WBKB.

With the rating services yet to be heard from, TV GUIDE is keeping a close check on its reader mail. Letters are as good as a barometer in telling how the "weather" will be. Your letters on the Friday night battle would be appreciated. What do you think?

SPORTS by ED PAZDUR

Have They Buried Barry?

Norm Barry is about to become the victim of a maneuver he's talked about often on his sports shows—a "squeeze play." His nightly sportscasts on WNBQ will be pared from 15 minutes to five (10:25-10:30 P.M.) starting in January. Frankly, it's a shame.

Norm is ill-suited to such a pygmy-sized program. His relaxed style demands elbowroom, time-wise. It's a handicap for any sportscaster to be so restricted. Even a fast talker like Joe Wilson has trouble covering all the day's events in a five-minute spiel. And Joe can spout words faster than an electronic brain can add.

WNBQ's story—and they're sticking to it—is that a film show sponsor bought the 10:30-11 P.M. time period right out from under Norm and pianist Herbie Mintz. It denied damaging rumors spread by an unscrupulous columnist that low ratings were to blame for Barry's bad luck.

Actually, Norm has always done well with the sportscasts he inherited from temperamental Tom Duggan last year. Many of the male fans who were alienated by Duggan's theatrics were won back by Norm's straight - forward approach. Quite a few distaff viewers became interested in sports, too, when handsome Norm took over. Finally, last summer he showed that he could cover actual sporting events in crack fashion when he was called in to do the championship golf show commentary.

It Was Bob's Brother

How old is WGN-TV's singing cowboy Bob Atcher? Could he possibly be the same Bob Atcher that sang on the radio Barn Dance 20 years ago with his son? Or maybe Bob was the son? It has kept me wondering for a long time.—M. C. S., Kenosha, Wis. [Neither. Bob, who is in his early 40's, did appear on the Barn Dance that long ago, but his partner was his younger brother, Randy, who has since left Chicago. Bob, incidentally, still sings and emcees the Saturday night Barn Dance.—ED.]

Atcher

Utley

On Utley's Return

Please tell me how Clifton Utley, WNBQ's news commentator, is getting along. We know that he has been sick for quite some time but keep hoping that he will be back soon.—Mrs. Mildred Natz, Joliet, Ill. [Cliff is making rapid recovery from his crippling illness. Reports say he should be back to TV early next year.—ED.]

He'd Have A Crowded Home

My daughter, 10, watches WNBQ's Pet Show. She likes it very much. She wants to know if Tom Mercein, the host, really owns all the birds, fishes and animals he displays.—Mrs. Lorraine Kucharski, Chicago. [No, the animals seen on the show are rented out by a local pet shop.—ED.]

Foreign Correspondents and Stars of Show Business

Present a 90-Minute Tribute to Former Colleagues

Hope

Sandburg

Raye

Fisher

Daly

Caesar

SPECIAL COLOR The Overseas Press Club Memorial Building in Manhattan is dedicated with a program saluting the men who have died serving the cause of a free press. Funds for the building were donated by organizations and individuals. Tonight's show has been arranged by Overseas Press Club members. John Daly will represent them as host.

HEADLINERS

Bob Hope, who toured the world entertaining American troops, is featured in a scene depicting his overseas stints.

Robert E. Sherwood, noted American playwright, contributes a dramatic vignette based on a scene of decision in the life of the great war correspondent, Ernie Pyle. Title: "The Making of an American Correspondent."

Richard Rodgers, the composer, conducts the orchestra in excerpts from "Victory at Sea," his score for the award-winning film series. "No Other Love," drawn from a melody in this score, is sung by Perry Como.

Sid Caesar, accompanied by thick accent, is the guest celebrity, just returned from Europe, on an extraordinary session of Meet the Press. Carl Reiner, Sid's regular sidekick, presides as moderator, and sharp-tongued reporter Lawrence Spivak holds his customary chair on the panel.

Milton Caniff has designed a comedy ballet based on his popular comic strip, "Steve Canyon." In this thrilling episode, Steve tries to rescue Summer Smith from foreign forces. He falls into the clutches of the gorgeous but evil Copper Calhoon. Tony Charmoli, who creates the dances on Hit Parade, has also choreographed this.

Eddie Fisher, in Hollywood, addresses his brother, Alvin, in New York. Alvin is recently back from Korea, and Eddie brings him up to date on the songs he's missed with a medley of hits. "Count Your Blessings," the presidential request number, is also sung by Eddie.

Perry Como, accompanied by the Ray Charles Singers and the Mitch Ayres Orchestra, sings his current hit, "Home for the Holidays." Martha Raye is also scheduled to sing a number or two.

Marian Anderson famed contralto, offers a spiritual.

Carl Sandburg poet and biographer, dedicates the Memorial Building.

Reporters: H. V. Kaltenborn, Bob Considine, Quentin Reynolds, Margaret Bourke-White and Hal Boyle will be among those to appear.

Credits: Guest producer, John Daly. NBC producer, Fred Coe. Conductor, Harry Sosnik.

Up For Arms

At last! At long last, a thing I have been waiting for happens. Russell Arms sings the Number 1 song on Your Hit Parade. I'm really very happy now. The producers finally found out what talent is by watching and listening to Russ.—Merille Mullis, Clare, Ill.

Compliments Jim Moran

For a long time I've wanted to tell how much I enjoy Jim Moran's Courtesy Hour and Courtesy Theater. More power to a swell guy like Jim for his fine variety show and film series. I was wondering if you could tell me the name of the theme song on Courtesy Theater. It is beautiful.—Mrs. Edward McIntyre, Michigan City, Ind. [The theme song for the Sunday night series is "Finlandia" by Sibelius.—ED.]

Better In The Bath?

To me it's very irritating the way singers on TV are always forgetting the words to their songs. I imagine they're nervous before the camera but after recording the songs and probably even singing them in the bath, they should have the lyrics down pat. As teen-agers say, they just plain "goof" when on camera.—Adrienne Schwartz, Chicago.

Witty Emcee, Bright Panel

It's a Curious Thing disproves those claims that Chicago can't originate a top-notch show. It's fun and entertaining to watch panelists like Kay Westfall, Ernie Simon and the others show how bright they are at identifying strange but useful objects. And emcee Dan McMaster has a pleasantly witty approach to the whole show.—Steve Vance, Chicago.

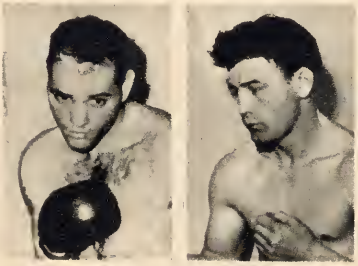
9:00 2 BOXING—Championship
SPECIAL Corl "Bobo" Olson (champion) vs. Pierre Langlois (challenger), middleweights, 15 rounds. Russ Hodges reports from San Francisco.

TV GUIDE RATINGS

	Rating	Bouts	W	L	D	KO's
Olson	Champ	65	59	6	0	30
Langlois	5	83	63	15	5	13

This will be the champion's third title defense this year. He is one of the toughest performers in the ring today and weors his opponents down rather thon finishing them with one punch. Langlois fights with awkward speed and can toke a punch. He is o deceptive ringman who mokes up for what he lacks in skill with couroge.



Olson vs. Longlois

The Halls of Ivy

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

Transplanted almost intact from radio, even to the extent of re-using radio scripts, The Halls of Ivy hardly seems a full-fledged television show. It suffers from an overabundance of talk-talk-talk, however delightful, and an almost complete lack of action.

Starring Ronald Colman and his wife, Benita Hume, the show boasts many assets. Colman has always been a consummate master of the English tongue. He can recite the alphabet and make it sound like an ode. Mrs. Colman is completely charming—captivating, even—and fits into the Colman scheme of things as perhaps no other actress could. Mary Wickes, as the maid, and Herb Butterfield, as Mr. Wellman, are two of the finest character actors in the business, lending considerable authority to the show.

What ails Halls of Ivy, however, is the dialog's tendency to become so "literary" that it seems on the precious side. Perhaps this is just one televiewer's reaction to champagne after a long and steady diet of beer. The lines are bright, to be sure, and Colman's delivery gives them added sparkle, but too often an entire scene seems predicated on the proposition that the star will top everything off with a real, put-'em-in-the-aisles quip. On radio, this technique was great. On television, things have to happen as well as be discussed.

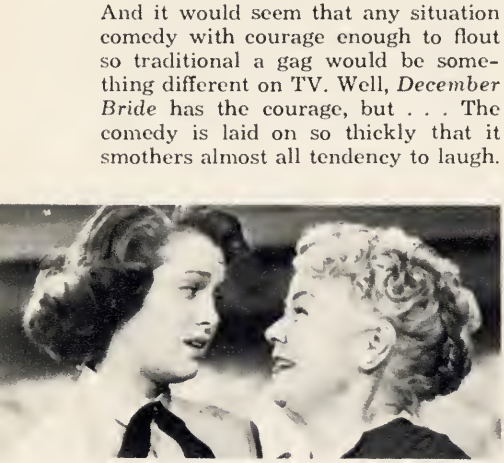
This is not a problem that cannot be solved in relatively short order, and Halls does indeed show far more promise than most new shows of the season. It possesses a high degree of sophistication, of intelligence and certainly of charm.

Once the writers grasp the essential fact that good writing is not necessarily all dialog, this show should quickly become one of the most entertaining on the air.—D.J.

◀ The Halls: Ronald Colman, Benita Hume.

December Bride

Despite what comedians have been saying all these years, it's no crime for a guy to like his mother-in-law. And it would seem that any situation comedy with courage enough to flout so traditional a gag would be something different on TV. Well, December Bride has the courage, but . . . The comedy is laid on so thickly that it smothers almost all tendency to laugh.



The show does have a certain amount of charm. Spring Byington, as the mother-in-law in question, is a veteran movie actress who knows her way around a gag line. As the widowed old girl whose daughter and son-in-law are constantly trying to marry her off, she displays a beguiling personality that often rises above the inane situations in which she's placed. Often, but not often enough. Most viewers won't be able to escape the impression that scripts are deliberately "written down" to them.

Frances Rafferty and Dean Miller, as Miss Byington's daughter and son-in-law, are skillful enough to be labeled "any average young married couple." But they, too, are caught up in a type of humor that is much too obvious. Harry Morgan, as their next-door neighbor, fits the old stereotype of the average guy who hates his mother-in-law.—R.S.

FINE TUNING — By Ollie Crawford

TV presents two-hour production of "Macbeth." Mac is the famous Thane who went inthane.

This is the play Shakespeare wrote about the Scotch after two quarts of the stuff.

It's also known as that popular TV show,"Witches My Line." Mac comes upon three witches boiling something in a pot, and he has to figure out which one is Francois Pope. He tastes the brew and decides it has a smidgen too much bat wing. Mac always figures a little bat wing goes a long way.

The witches also taste the stuff, and their first prediction is that it will never replace Boopsycola.

Mac asks them what is hot in the third race, and they give him a little number called Birnam Wood. When Birnam Wood comes to the Dunsinane track, they say, bet the castle. Macbeth takes one more sip of the home brew and starts a dagger epidemic.

Duncan's big line is where he says, "I'm kilt, I'm kilt," which was the first pair of Scotch kilts.

Macduff finally arrives and puts down the riot. He was the U.S. Cavalry of his day.

Why Jerry Lewis Tore Up Photos; Liberace Tells of Broken Romance

HOLLYWOOD . . . Jerry Lewis has instructed the NBC publicity department, "Destroy every photo of me without Dean." Because a reporter did a story on Jerry recently without mentioning Dean Martin. And Jerry is afraid of another feud . . . Liberace came home from his nine-city tour, richer by $271,000 and poorer(?) by one girl friend, Joanne Rio, who is now grazing in greener pastures. "I had a chance to think for myself," Lee told this reporter, after unpacking. "I found out that the fans want me to be married, but they didn't like this particular choice."

■ No one is crying over the cancellation of That's My Boy. Eddie Mayehoff is a good actor, but he also acts up. The other day the photographer on the set wanted him to pose with Gil Stratton and Rochelle Hudson for some publicity shots, but That's My Eddie huffed, "I'm the star of this show. I want pictures of me alone."

■ Danny Thomas took a car for daughter Margaret as payment for his glorified commercial on Shower of Stars. I hated to tell him of the tax strings . . . After all these years, Fred Allen has discovered the cause of his high blood pressure. He's allergic to fish! . . . Jim Backus, Joan Davis' TV mate, is planning a new quiz show called Stand the Pain. "The jackpot," says Jim, "is hospitalization for all the harassed participants to have a nervous breakdown."

■ They say: The reason behind George Raft's upcoming appearance on Jack Benny's show, according to the Great Miser: "I saw him in 'Scarface,' and I admire anyone who can flip 50 cents so casually." . . . "Is life catching up with you?" I asked 59-year-old Groucho Marx after his last You Bet Your Life. "No," deadpanned Groucho, "but I think the audience is." . . . I overheard mellow-voiced Tony Martin, whose wife is gifted dancer Cyd Charisse, discussing their two kids: "They're great youngsters, but they all dance like me and sing like Cyd."

■ Girl talk: No more video for Marilyn Monroe, who just turned down $50,000 for no singing, no dancing, no acting. Just to take a long, low bow . . . Sheree North, too, has done her last TV show. At least that's what the dancer says . . . The revamping of NBC's daytime TV schedule is depressing news for dimpled Betty White . . . Mrs. George Gobel is getting a bigger kick than her small spouse from his sudden fame. "Before," George told me, "she was never consulted about anything. Now she gives interviews, poses all over. She's living. Her only worry is that she just might say the wrong thing."

■ The audience at the This Is Your Life about Norman Vincent Peale was full of church members who knew. Mrs. Ralph Edwards usually sits out front, but the buzz buzz of Norman's name before the show made her so nervous that she fled to the sponsors' booth. Ralph doesn't even let his children hear who'll be profiled on the show. Afraid they'll let a hint slip at school!

Dolling Up For Christmas

TV DOLLS from TV favorites grow. Foodini was first, in 1949. Then came Howdy Doody, and after Doody, the deluge! Dozens —in time for Christmas buying—are now on the market. Some TV shows have inspired single dolls; others, a parade. Here are some that 1954's would-be Santas have to choose from: 1. Flub-A-Dub. 2. Haleloke. 3. Morgan. 4. Rootie Kazootie. 5. Danny O'Day. 6. J. Fred Muggs. 7. Dagmar, of Mama. 8. Howdy Doody. 9. Clarabell. 10. Ricky, Jr. 11. Jerry Mahoney. 12. Maxine. 13. Farfel. 14. Imogene Coca. 15. Annie Oakley. 16. Marion Marlowe. 17. Charlemane. 18. Minnie Mouse. 19. Lu Ann Simms. 20. Mary Hartline. 21. Roxanne. 22. J. Fred Muggs (again!) 23. Humphrey Higsbye. 24. Donald Duck. 25. Patti Page's MaMa doll. Their live playmate is Pamela Micharlsen.

Charlie Ruggles' Career Led From Film Studio To Grocery

Cicero P. Sweeney is at it again. He's solving problems—big, little and medium—slick as a whistle in just 15 minutes, the time allotted him by NBC five days a week.

It looked for a while as if Cicero, cracker barrel sage, would not return to his grocery store in Mapletown (dead center U.S.A., we presume) to resurrect The World of Mr. Sweeney, which started out as a portion of The Kate Smith Show and graduated into a four-times-a-week summer replacement. But, much to the delight of a rather amazingly large audience, and to the evident satisfaction of Charlie Ruggles, Cicero is back again.

For Charlie, who has spent a good many years building up the character of a lovable old rascal for stage and films, plays lovable old rascal Cicero on the show.

A native of Los Angeles, Charlie originally gravitated toward the theater "because, at that time, you didn't have to know a thing about acting to get a job acting." As proof, the young Ruggles got himself a job on his first try—a speaking part, too.

He spent eight years with stock companies, playing old men. At the ripe old age of 17 he got his first "juvenile" role. He came to New York to try the Broadway footlights and stayed several years. But it wasn't until he returned to Hollywood in 1930 that he made a name for himself as a character actor.

After some 60 films and 24 years of the wide-open spaces, Charlie says, "I wouldn't say anything against Hollywood, but I like live TV. There's nothing like competing with young people to keep a man alert."

Charlie's fondness for live TV might have something to do with the fact that his previous filmed TV series, The Ruggles, flopped. "Live TV is a challenge," he says, "because you're facing people breathing the same air as you are."

He suggested that this is what keeps a good many motion picture people out of the live end of the business. "They wonder," he suggests, "if they are good enough and, then, can they be good enough in a hurry."

Charlie's new-found delight was recently strengthened after meeting a friend. "He is the same age as I am—68—and he is a wizened old man. I'm not shrivelled. There's nothing like television to keep a man on his toes."

Defending Mr. Sweeney's world as a "soap opera with humor," Charlie was first interested in the script because "I've got a little bit of a sense of humor myself." Cicero also reminds Charlie of a favorite uncle who was thrown out of school at the age of 10, went to sea and ended up owning a "mess of steamers" on the West Coast. The difference is that the other self-made man (Cicero) only wound up with a grocery store.

Modest, or perhaps reticent, about the future, Charlie only says, "I'm returning (to California) to sell my house and then coming straight back. When I bought it in the Thirties the area was completely agricultural. Now it's a business area, and it breaks my heart to see all those lovely old orange trees going down under bulldozers."

Businessman as well as actor, he has had his own radio show, been a real estate operator, raised small dogs, large turkeys and gigantic oranges. "I'm very adaptable. I couldn't go back to the days when I kept a suitcase packed at the door, in anticipation of a job. My wife, who's not in the theater, wouldn't like it.

"But I could play the circuit, if I had to. And I'd make it satisfactory. It's only when you let work become work that you're in trouble. Even a window washer's job could be interesting, provided he had the sense to talk about what he saw."

These words might almost have come from the mouth of that homely philosopher, Cicero, himself. Such similarity surely must qualify a man for the job.

'The One With Talent'

ARTHUR GODFREY SUMS UP LA MARLOWE IN FOUR WORDS

For Marion Marlowe, life became beautiful just about a year ago. As a matter of fact, the great moment came the day Arthur Godfrey, who employs Miss Marlowe as a thrush on his CBS variety shows, excommunicated Julius La Rosa for lack of humility.

"Marion Marlowe," TV's ageless Redhead intoned at that time, "is the only one on this show with any talent."

This pronouncement certainly put La Rosa in his place. Unfortunately, it didn't do much for the egos of Lu Ann Simms, Frank Parker, Janette Davis or the Maguire Sisters, who proved that they had humility by staying on the show anyway. But it worked wonders for the morale of Marion Marlowe.

Something to wear: Marion choosing

'Always wonderful': Marion and Arthur Godfrey. She has nothing but praise for his kindness to her.

Even now, she has to smile when she thinks about it.

"You know," she remarked the other day, "it was really quite embarrassing. But, of course, I was highly complimented. Arthur has always been wonderful to me."

Although critics of the program occasionally have observed that a talented performer on Arthur Godfrey

A voice lesson with Enrico Rosati. ▶

a dress for the show. She has 500.

and His Friends is as rare as a cherry-stone clam in a bowl of soup-kitchen chowder, Marion is inclined to the theory that Arthur really didn't mean to imply that he agreed with the critics. What he probably meant, in Marion's analysis, is that on his show "there are all kinds of types."

Marion paused here and, in order to express herself with greater clarity, sought inspiration by glancing around the waiting room at Godfrey's headquarters in New York, where she was being interviewed. On the walls were mottos by Elbert Hubbard, Satchel Paige and other philosophers.

"What he meant," she said finally, "is, well, it's that some people prefer Lu Ann Simms, for instance. And then some people like me or Frank Parker. Well, I think each of us adds something to the show, but the one who adds the most is Arthur himself. It's just as Arthur says; he's that little extra dab of peanut butter that sticks the show together."

Astrologically unsound: Marion and Frank Parker, with whom she denies romance. He's Taurus and she's Pisces.

From the very first, Arthur has treated her just fine, Marion insists. Why, the first time he saw her sing—in a night club in Miami—he said, "Young woman, you can really sing a song. Would you like to come to New York and sing in my show?"

"Imagine," Marion said. "Imagine."

The very next day she flew north to New York with Godfrey and that night she appeared on the show for the first time. That was 47 months ago . . . and she and Arthur have never exchanged a cross word since; not even on that awful morning when Marion lost her petticoat in the middle of the show.

She was singing a duet with Frank Parker that day when—whoops!—she suddenly stepped out of her petticoat with the eclat of a Gypsy Rose Lee.

"It was terrible," Marion recalled. "The strap broke."

At the time, all the newspapers reported that Godfrey was real upset about the petticoat incident. Some of the more excitable columnists went so far as to assert that Arthur had chewed her out completely. But that just isn't true, according to Marion. In fact, Arthur was very fair.

"Do you know what he said to me after the show? He said, 'Forget about it, Marion; it could have happened to anyone.'"

And speaking of rumors, what was all this gossip, anyway, about big, hazel-eyed Marion and smiling Frank Parker?

"That!" Marion looked like a girl who had heard all this before. "Anytime audiences notice Frank smiling at me during the show, they immediately start getting ideas about us. I wonder why they can't see that we're acting!"

Anyway, she was quick to point out, a romance with Frank Parker would be astrologically unsound.

"He's Taurus," she explained, "and I'm Pisces."

Marion, who was born in St. Louis, made her debut as an actress—on a one-minute radio spot—when she was five. After high school she became, in turn, a model, a ballroom dancer, a USO entertainer and a radio singer.

While visiting an aunt in Los Angeles, she became the protegee of Atwater Kent, the late radio tycoon, who sent her to dancing school. From there, she was off to London for an 18-month singing engagement. On her return to St. Louis—she doesn't like to talk about this part—she was married and subsequently divorced. Her next stop was Miami—and Godfrey.

Today, Marion is as happy as a butterfly on Godfrey and Friends.

"Arthur's been fine about everything," she said. "He has never said I couldn't sing on my own—or even star in a Broadway show if I wanted to. The only thing is, I don't want to. Right now I just want to sing for Arthur Godfrey and His Friends."

She looked around the waiting room once again. On the walls were several smiling portraits of Godfrey—as well as some plaques testifying to his distinguished services to TV, radio, the world of sports, and the cause of flying. On the floor was a thick, rich carpet. Marion sighed happily.

And why shouldn't she? She's a princess in Godfreyland.
